- Gồm 7 câu hỏi, yêu cầu:
 - Khả năng chọn lọc thông tin.
 - Khả năng Scanning khi đọc.
 - Đọc 4 đoạn văn đọc thoại và nổi thông tin.
- Mỗi đoạn văn đúng tương đương 4 điểm.

EXAMPLE

CHILDHOOD

A: In the past, I really liked playing board games. Now, to limit the children from using computers, I often spend time playing with them. However, I have struggled with them because the games nowadays have more characters and rules, making us think a lot every time we play. Despite this, my children and I still like it and have a good time together.

B: When I was a child, I often played soccer with other children of the same age. We usually played in the schoolyard and sometimes in the open spaces of the neighborhood. We divided into small teams and chased the ball until we were all tired.

LESSON 3

EXAMPLE

Part 3

C: When I was a child, I didn't like going out to play, so I chose reading books as a form of entertainment. The stories described in the pages of books helped me discover my own world. Later, when I grew up, I started liking modern games with eye-catching interfaces, which help me relax and increase my creativity.

D: When I was a child, I really liked outdoor activities. I remember that on bad weather days, I was always by the window, glued to it, looking outside and praying for the rain to stop. At those times, my mother often gave me paper and a box of crayons. I really enjoyed that drawing activity and often drew at home when the weather was bad.

- Who finds today's games harder than before?
- Who enjoyed playing with friends in childhood?
- Who enjoys playing with their children?
- Who waited and hoped to go outside?
- Who prefers modern games?
- Who enjoyed arts as a child?
- Who enjoyed reading books as a child?

PART 4 - READING

 - Khả năng Scanning và Skimming khi đọc.
 - Đọc 7 đoạn văn học thuật và chọn tiêu đề phù hợp cho từng đoạn văn
- Mỗi câu hỏi tương đương 2 điểm.
- Kỹ năng Skimming (Đọc lướt để lấy ý chính)
 - Skimming là kỹ năng đọc nhanh để lấy ý chính của bài đọc mà không cần đọc từng từ.
 - Khi đọc các văn bản dài như bài báo, sách, báo cáo.
 - Cách thực hiện: Đọc dịch câu đầu và câu cuối mỗi đoạn.
- Kỹ năng Scanning (Đọc quét để tìm thông tin cụ thể)
 - Scanning là kỹ năng đọc nhanh để tìm một thông tin cụ thể mà không cần hiểu toàn bộ nội dung bài đọc.
 - Quét bài đọc theo chiều dọc để tìm từ khóa hoặc từ đồng nghĩa.
 - Khi tìm thấy từ khóa, đọc kỹ câu chứa thông tin để trả lời câu hỏi.

LESSON 3

EXAMPLE

Part 4

(1) The Dutch Golden Age was a period of prosperity, marked by economic expansion, global trade, and cultural achievements. During this time, the Netherlands emerged as a dominant financial hub, with its thriving economy fostering investment. The rising wealth of merchants and aristocrats fueled the demand for exotic commodities, making tulips a symbol of success and excess. Ultimately, this era of economic power laid the foundation for the speculative frenzy that would follow.

(2) Tulips did not always hold the high status they later achieved. Initially introduced to Europe from the Ottoman Empire, they were regarded as a botanical curiosity rather than a luxury item. However, as European nobility took an interest in cultivating rare and vibrant varieties, tulips quickly became a fashionable statement of prestige. The more unique and difficult to grow a tulip was, the higher its desirability—and the greater its perceived value. This fascination with floral rarity soon evolved into a high-stakes market.

(3) What began as a fascination with tulips soon turned into a lucrative business. By the early 1600s, tulips were no longer just flowers; they had become financial assets, bought and sold at ever-increasing prices. With the right timing, a single transaction could generate immense profits, attracting more participants to the market. In this way, tulips transitioned from ornamental beauties to objects of financial speculation.

LESSON 3

EXAMPLE

(4) Not all tulips were valued equally; some varieties were far more prized than others. Botanists and gardeners developed increasingly rare hybrids, some displaying stunning flame-like streaks caused by a viral infection. Among the most famous and expensive were the Semper Augustus and Viceroy, whose scarcity made them highly sought-after. Collectors and investors alike competed for ownership of these unique specimens, reinforcing their status as objects of both beauty and immense value.

(5) The tulip market did not operate like traditional agriculture—it functioned more like a modern stock exchange. Investors purchased tulip futures, contracts allowing them to buy bulbs that had not yet been harvested, speculating on their future value. The lack of regulation meant that as long as confidence remained high, prices continued to rise. However, speculation without a solid foundation always carries risk, as history would soon prove.

(6) While the Netherlands was the epicenter of the tulip trade, the demand for these flowers extended beyond its borders. Wealthy collectors in France, England, and Germany sought Dutch tulips to display their status, leading to a thriving export market. As tulip bulbs were transported across Europe, the industry grew even further, spreading the financial frenzy beyond Dutch borders. This international interest helped sustain the speculative boom—until the inevitable crash arrived.

LESSON 3

EXAMPLE

(7) At the height of tulip mania in 1637, the market suddenly collapsed. Buyers who had been willing to pay exorbitant prices for tulips lost confidence, leading to a rapid decline in demand. Almost overnight, the once-priceless bulbs became nearly worthless, leaving many investors bankrupt. This dramatic crash, now regarded as one of the first recorded financial bubbles, demonstrated the dangers of unchecked speculation. Though the financial losses were immense, the lesson learned from tulip mania remains relevant even today.

1. Coming into fashion
2. Different types of tulip
3. An object of trade
4. Trade mechanics
5. Trade across Europe
6. The economy during the Golden Age
7. An unexpected turn of events

Part 2

Family Sports Day

1. After she got her prize, children's activities and competitions began.
2. Sixty people took part, and among them, Ms. Kamus kept the fastest pace and won the race.
3. It took place on Sunday morning in the park, there was a race for adults.
4. The activities were football, swimming, skipping, and more, and the kids had fun playing together.
5. After the games, the kids were really hungry and ate with their parents.

LESSON 3

A: Before trying any extreme sport, I believe it's absolutely essential to train properly. These kinds of activities are exciting, but they can also be dangerous if you don't know what you're doing. I've seen people get hurt because they didn't prepare well. That's why I always make sure to take a training course and understand the safety rules before I try anything new. With the right preparation, I think extreme sports can be a great experience.

B: I've always been more into traditional sports like swimming, running, or playing tennis. They're fun and easy to do regularly. But a few months ago, I went bungee jumping during a holiday, and it was an incredible experience. I didn't expect to enjoy it so much! I still prefer regular sports for everyday fitness, but now I'm definitely more open to trying extreme sports once in a while for adventure.

C: What I love most about extreme sports is how they let me enjoy nature in a different way. Activities like rock climbing or mountain biking allow me to explore amazing places while challenging myself physically and mentally. It's a way to disconnect from daily life and feel completely alive. If I had more time and money, I'd love to do these kinds of sports more often - especially in wild, remote areas.

D: I know some people find extreme sports exciting, but for me, they've never been important. I actually avoid them as much as possible. I don't like the idea of putting myself in danger just for fun. There are plenty of safer ways to stay active and enjoy life. I'd rather go for a walk or do yoga than jump out of a plane or climb a mountain. It's just not my thing.

1. Find training before participating important
2. Always avoid playing extreme sports
3. Want to play more extreme sports
4. Like traditional sports like swimming.
5. Still like extreme sports after playing once
6. Enjoy nature
7. Find extreme sports unimportant

3. Tell me a time you worked in a team
4. Tell me a time you helped someone
5. Tell me a time you were in rush
6. Tell me a time you achieved your goal

MỞ BÀI

During my time at university, I had many chances to try new things. But today, I want to tell you about the most impressive one.

THÂN BÀI

There was a time when I had to figure out a tough question in science class. I read a few books on the topic of science and nature to find the answer, but to be honest, they didn't help much. Therefore, I decided to ask my friends to team up with me and we spent a whole day working on it. My friend gathered related materials, then I helped him to connect the dots and we had the answer. After that, we were in a rush to make a presentation, which was a lot of work. Finally, our teacher loved the presentation and it made us feel that the hard work paid off.

KẾT BÀI

It was a great experience that taught me a lot. I felt really happy, and I will never forget it.

3. Tell me a time about your busiest time
4. Tell me a time you had a challenge
5. Tell me a time you received a gift
6. Tell me a time you learned a new thing

MỞ BÀI

During my time at university, I had many chances to try new things. But today, I want to tell you about the most impressive one.

THÂN BÀI

There was a time when I had to save up to buy a new laptop. There were abundant options at different price ranges, which made me feel overwhelmed. Then, I heard about a badminton competition with a reward of 20 million, so although I didn't want to, I decided to take part in it. It was my busiest time because of my mid-term tests. I had not played badminton before. When I started to practice, I realized that it was a challenge for me since I was not into badminton that much. However, all the hard work paid off. I won first place and got myself a brand-new laptop. Finally, I not only achieved my goal but also had an opportunity to practice my badminton skills.

KẾT BÀI

It was a great experience that taught me a lot. I felt really happy, and I will never forget it.

PICNIC

1. Tell me a time someone treated you impolitely
2. Tell me a time someone told you to stop doing something
3. Tell me a time you received help
4. Tell me a time you laughed loudly
5. Tell me a time you met new friends

MỞ BÀI

During my time at university, I had many chances to try new things. But today, I want to tell you about the most impressive one.

THÂN BÀI

There was a time when I had a picnic with my family. I met an impolite person, who carelessly threw trash on the grass. Actually, I was annoyed and frustrated by his behavior, so I decided to warn him. But he told me to stop bothering him, he didn't follow my advice and expressed rude attitudes toward me. What an impolite person! However, when I was struggling with my tent, he came and asked if he could help me set up my tent. Then, he suddenly apologized to me for his bad behavior, which surprised me. It made us feel on top of the world and laugh a lot to resolve our misunderstanding. It was a great opportunity to make new friends.

KẾT BÀI

It was a great experience that taught me a lot. I felt really happy, and I will never forget it.

5. Tell me a time you saw an impressive work of art

MỞ BÀI

During my time at university, I had many chances to try new things. But today, I want to tell you about the most impressive one.

THÂN BÀI

During Tet holiday, when I went to Vinpearl Land amusement park in Nha Trang with my family. We planned to do different activities because it was the first time I had been there. Unfortunately, it was raining heavily, which didn't allow us to take part in thrilling rides in the amusement park such as the free-fall tower and the roller coaster. We were disappointed, so we decided to take a walk around the amusement park, hoping that the weather would be better. As we expected, the rain stopped, so we immediately ran to thrilling rides like Zipline and roller coasters to give them a try. After that, we had an opportunity to admire an impressive artwork depicting a school of dolphins.

KẾT BÀI

It was a great experience that taught me a lot. I felt really happy, and I will never forget it.
